

She taught at Harding for only one year. I thought I was responsible for that but we reconnected via Facebook in 2015 and she assured me that she and the Principal had had problems at a prior school and that my antics were not the reason for her dismissal.

Later, when I was stationed in Germany, I saw her name in the Stars & Stripes several times, and she confirmed she had gone overseas and taught for several years.

She turned 80 in January, 2017 and, several weeks later, went missing and has never been found. Sounds like there was no foul play involved.
